EXPLANATIONS

The arrangements of families in this volume, so that any one can trace his lineage either backward or forward, is quite simple when once understood. The small Roman numerals (i. ii. iii. iv. v., etc.) opposite a name indicate the position in the family with regard to the date of birth; the capital Roman numerals (I. II. III. IV. V. etc.) used in connection with the head of a family indicate the consecutive generation of that person from the early settlers Robert Hazelton or John Hazelton, who are considered as the first generation, or capital Roman numeral I; their children were the second generation, or capital Roman numeral II; the children of the second generation were the third generation, or the capital Roman numeral III. The Arabic figures, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, etc., opposite names indicate the position in the genealogy, and are consecutive numberings. Whenever a person is referred to, it is by his or her consecutive number. Such consecutive number of a person standing against his name in the genealogical arrangement, appears above his name with the same number when he comes to have a family record of his own.

The raised or superior figures placed at the right of a Christian name, when first mentioned, shows the generation to which such person belongs, reckoning from his immigrant ancestor, who is always called of the first generation, and in each case where the head of a family is named, his line is traced back to the immigrant, with Capital Roman numerals immediately preceding the record of his own family, thus: I. Robert; II. Abraham; III. Richard; IV. John; V. John; VI. Nancy.

Only a few abbreviations are used; b. stands for born; m. for married; and d. for died.

And finally, it should be stated that no one need expect to find this work free from errors. Works of this character involving so many dates, are never absolutely correct. These errors occur in various ways. Persons copying their family records, quite often make mistakes. Town records are rarely correct in every particular, and again the compiler makes mistakes in copying, and the stenographer in cutting the stencils which are overlooked by the proof-reader. It is hoped, however, that the errors herein may not be found in excess of those generally found in works of a similar character, and to the charitable consideration and discriminating judgment of those for whom the volume is intended, the same is respectfully submitted by

"HERALDRY," says Burke, "is not of remote origin; the registry of its birth is found among the archives of the holy wars; its cradle was rocked by the soldiers of the Cross, and its maturity attained in those extraordinary times of reality and romance, of barbarism and civilization- more barbarous than civilized- when feudalism, allying with chivalry was enabled to reburnish its iron crown, and to prolong its herculean despotism even to another age- to lull, for it could not altogether smother, the breathings of public opinion, at the outburst of which, the whole feudal fabric was predestined like another Jericho, to crumble into ruins. The feudal lord and his frowning fortress, the mailed knight and his gorgeous tournament, have passed away, and heraldry alone survives, the only existing relic of either."

Heraldry, since its nativity has flourished in every age, in every country and under almost every form of government. In England it has been more than fondly fostered; there a coat of arms has always been the indispensable appendage of a gentleman, and be it inherited or acquired, it is equally an object of pride and display. Heraldry is, however, no more than an organization of the emblems and devices which had previously existed beyond the memory of man; almost coevally with man himself; for nature had hardly imparted her first lesson of self-preservation than instinct had taught the full value and importance of union- the fable and moral of the bundle of sticks. Hence bands, tribes, sects and nations; and hence those insignia so necessary as landmarks by which tribes might be separated, boundaries fixed and friends and foes distinguished and despoiled. Advancing imperceptibly in the train of civilization, these rude devices assumed a systematic form, and at length, at the eventful period to which reference has been made, acquired the designation of heraldry; this in brief, is the origin of the science of arms.

Arms were no sooner esteemed as evidence of honor and blood than their possession was eagerly sought for by all, who, by their own industry, the patronage of the feudal lord, or through royal favor, had obtained landed property, but who had not previously served in a military capacity; hence application to the crown for grants of arms became so constant that the King finding the duties so onerous that he appointed officers to grant ensigns armorial within their respective provinces under the authority of the Earl Marshal. Arms in their first acceptation, were taken up at any gentleman's pleasure, yet that liberty was denied by regal authority and were made the rewards and ensigns of merit, or the gracious favor of princes.

Though elaborated during the crusades, to the French is due the credit of perfecting it and of inventing its technical nomenclature. From the display of arms on garments originated "Coats of Arms." The rules of heraldry differ some in various countries, but the general principles are the same. The offices of heraldry are performed by heralds whose chief duties consist in the blazoning of arms, the presentation of heraldic records and pedigrees and the conducting of public ceremonies. In England heralds are merged in a corporation called the College of Arms or Herald's College which was instituted in 1483 by King Richard the Third. At the head of the institution is the Earl Marshal of England, under him are three knights at arms.

It will thus be seen that while the right to armorial bearings was originally limited to those who bore arms either in the crusades against the infidel, or in defense of king or country, it finally came to pass that coats of arms were granted for the performance of any great or noble deed, for any important discovery in science or art and even for the influence imparted by the possession of great wealth. Blazonry is an essential part of arms. To blazon a coat of arms is so to describe it that any person with an ordinary knowledge of heraldry will be able to comprehend, and an artist to sketch it. The terms are much abbreviated and all tautology must be avoided. After occupying for ages, the attention of the learned and forming an important branch of a princely education, the study of it fell into disrepute, and was abandoned to coach-painters and undertakers, a degradation due to the endless tissue of follies and mystifications that had been interwoven therewith. Modern writers have rescued it from the pedantries and follies of the heralds and have imparted to it a new and important interest as a valuable aid to historical and genealogical investigation. And this is really its only value at the present time, and especially in this country where no titles of nobility can either be granted or recognized. (To our Canadian relatives: The last clause was written from the viewpoint of a United States' citizen.) Take for instance, the various coats of arms used by the Hazelden or Hazelton families as described hereafter. While no two are exactly alike, yet there are certain emblems either alike or so nearly so, as to indicate a relationship and a common origin.

ORTHOGRAPHY OF THE NAME

Lower, in his Patronymica Britanica, says that Hazelden was an ancient manor in Dallington, Co., Sussex, and adds: "The name appears to have been corrupted to Haseldine, Hazeltine, Hazeldine, and Hesseltine." This is doubtless correct and Hazelden the original orthography. The etymology of the word also comes to our aid, for Hazelden is composed of the words hazel, a shrub or tree, and den means a valley, and taken together, "hazelvalley" or the "valley where hazels grow," while the various corruptions given above, and multiplied still more in this country, appear to have no meaning or significance at all. In the records of the various families in this country, which have come into my hands, the following variations appear: "Hassaltine," "Hazzaltine," "Hezeltine," "Hesseltine," "Heseltine," "Hazeltine," "Hazleton," "Heselton," and "Hesselton," but in no case the original Hazelden. In one instance I have found the name Hazelhurst, a separate family and having the same etymology as Hazelwood. "Hazelrigg," the name of a prominent English family raised to the peerage, has a similar etymology, it being Hazelridge. In compiling and arranging these records, it would have obviously been improper for me to have given to each branch its own orthography, and for the sake of uniformity it became necessary for me to select some one of the various spellings and carry it through the work. The original name of Hazelden would have seemed to me the most appropriate, but as no American family has adopted this method of spelling it, I thought it best to adopt the spelling which in sound and etymology came the nearest to the original method, and this was Hazelton. The transition from Hazelden to Hazelton is quite easy and natural, and this was probably the first change made in the method of spelling the name. Although neither of the immigrants or any of their immediate progeny, adopted this method of writing the name, many in both lines have adopted it, and it has an increasing popularity. The termination ton may mean a hill, a town, or enclosed place, and the entire word may mean "hazel hill," "hazel town," or almost any place where hazel trees abound. It is hoped that this selection may not offend those who practice a different orthography, since it is obvious that all could not be gratified.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT HAZELTON

In the year sixteen hundred thirty seven, there landed at Salem in the Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, the Rev. Ezekiel Rogers and about sixty families who had come from the counties of Yorkshire and Devonshire in England, for the purpose of planting a colony in the wilds of the new world. The company embraced all the artisans and trades necessary to establish a first-class, self-reliant and self-sustaining community and included smiths of various kinds, weavers, carpenters, farmers and herdsmen. They were members of the church, and their leader, Rev. Ezekiel Rogers who had been their pastor in the old country, was to sustain the same relation in the new. After remaining in Salem as a rallying point for about a month, they pitched upon territory now the town of Rowley in the county of Essex as the place of settlement. They began a clearing near the sea where the village of Rowley now stands, and very soon a mill was erected, the weavers commenced their labors and here and by them, was manufactured the first cloth made in New England. They called the settlement Rogers' Plantation, but a year later they changed the name to Rowley, this being the name of the old town in Yorkshire from which some of the company had come.

The territory taken up by the Rogers company included the present towns of Rowley, Georgetown, Boxford and Bradford. Mr. Rogers was a man of substance and character, a non-conformist who had left his native land and settled in the wilds of New England where he hoped to enjoy religious freedom which had been denied him at his old home. He was somewhat advanced in years and twelve years after his arrival, twelve years of unceasing labor, he died. Under his fostering care, the colony grew and thrived, and after he had passed to the silent land, the impulse which he had given it caused it to increase and prosper until it came to be one of the largest and thriftiest plantations in the Province.

In Mr. Rogers' company were two men bearing the names of Robert and John Hazelton. The early records have the spelling of Heselton, but it has undergone many changes, and has since been variously written, Haseltine, Hazeltine, Hassaltine, Hazelton, etc. In the old country the name was originally Hazelden, from hazel, a tree or shrub, and den a valley; the hazel valley, or the valley where the hazels grow. In Yorkshire and also in Devonshire where the name is quite common, it has been corrupted much the same as here. Robert and John Hazelton were brothers and are said to have been herdsmen, but they were probably farmers, keeping stock being apart of their business as it has been with New England farmers ever since. Their record has come down to us as hardy, vigorous, thrifty and upright men and valuable members of the colony. They took the freeman's oath, May thirteen, sixteen hundred forty, thus becoming freemen and citizens on the same day.

In the year sixteen hundred forty-nine, memorable to the colony for the death of their beloved pastor and to the English speaking world for the execution of Charles the First, the colony at Rowley desired to extend their borders to the Merrimack river. There were natural meadows in the vicinity which furnished excellent pasturage for their increasing herds, but it required settlers near them to look after them, and to protect them from wild beasts and Indians. In consideration of certain grants of land in the new territory, Robert and John Hazelton and William Wilde commenced clearings and erected dwellings upon lands bordering on the Merrimack river, and were the first settlers in the present town of Bradford. They were also the pioneers in the movement for an expansion of the improved lands of Rowley toward the west. In consideration of these grants, The Hazeltons and Wilde were to look after the cattle belonging to the settlers while grazing upon the natural meadows already referred to, and this fact doubtless gave rise to the tradition that has been handed down concerning these men that they were herdsmen by occupation. The first home of the Hazeltons in Bradford was on the westerly slope of the pleasant grove which stands now as then, near the site of the old townhouse where the soil was rich and mellow and where the birds chanted their earliest spring notes. Here they built their first house, but a few years after, they erected more substantial homes on what is called Indian Hill, where they also built the first meeting house, the minister's house and laid out a burying place. They owned large tracts of land including that upon which the village and academy now are, and here they lived, multiplied and prospered and in the town of Bradford some of their posterity still live. The descendants of these two men are very numerous and widely scattered. They early followed the march of civilization into New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont, crossed over Lake Champlain into New York, and as the course of empire made its way westward, they settled in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, and today persons of this descent may be found in almost every state and territory of the west, southwest and northwest. Their enterprise is shown in the fact that a dozen towns in as many states bear the name, and numerous postoffices, hamlets and villages, are called Hazelton.

It is believed that nearly all the persons bearing the name of Hazelton with its varied orthography in this country, are descendants of Robert and John of Rowley and Bradford, but it is known that there have been one or more recent immigrations from the old country. Solomon Hasaltine who lived in Swansea, N. H., and who was a soldier in the war for independence, is said to have been born in England. He served out several terms of enlistment and was a pensioner. He has descendants one of whom is the noted steam-boiler manufacturer of Chicago.

John Hazelton brother of Robert, after a few years at Bradford, crossed the Merrimack and lived and died in Haverhill. His place in Bradford, which included the westerly half of the village, became the property of his son Samuel who continued to reside upon it until he died. Robert Hazelton and William Wilde settled near John, and the meadow land which the brothers jointly owned is known as "Hasseltine's Meadow" to this day. The place where they settled was first called Merrimack, and was subsequently changed to Bradford, after a town in the old country from which some of the early settlers came. At the first meeting of Merrimack people Robert Heseltine was chosen one of the selectmen.

Robert Hazelton was supposed to have been the elder, though there is no positive evidence that such was the fact. We know not the birth day or year of either, but in all conveyances which required joint action, the name of Robert always appeared first. In those early times respect to age was much more marked than it is now, and the fact that Robert was always given the precedence in the matter of signing deeds and other documents, is almost conclusive that he was the elder brother. The marriage of Robert and Ann Hazelton (we have not her family name) was solemnized in Rowley October twenty-third, sixteen hundred thirty-nine, and the first in the plantation or town. The wife died in Bradford July twenty-sixth, sixteen hundred eighty-four. He made his will October 25, 1673, and it was proved September 29, 1674. He died, Bradford, August 27, 1674. He was the first to establish a ferry between Bradford and Haverhill. *

The children of Robert and Ann Hazelton, born in Rowley and Bradford, were as follows:

SECOND GENERATION

1. Anna ², b. Rowley, Jan. 2, 1641; m. Ipswich, Mass., Nov. 7, 1660, Caleb Kimball of Ipswich.

2. Mercy ², b. Rowley, Aug. 16, 1642; m. Salisbury, Mass., Feb. 16, 1666, Benjamin Kimball of Salisbury.

3. David ², b.-----; m. Bradford, Sept. 26, 1668, Mary, daughter of Maximillian Jewett.

4. Mary ², b. Rowley, Dec. 14, 1646; d. in infancy.

5. Arbraham ², Rowley, March 3, 1648; m. Rowley, Oct. 7, 1669, Elizabeth Langhorne.

7. Elizabeth ², b. Rowley, Jan. 15, 1652-3; d. young. (Died Rowley, May 18, 1654.)

8. Deliverance ², b.-----; m. Andover, Mass., Dec. 16, 1672, Nathaniel Dean of Andover.

9. Robert ², b. Rowley, Sept. 7, 1657; m. Bradford, July 21, 1690, Elizabeth Jewett. Robert was freemand Oct. 11, 1682.

10. Gersham ², b. Rowley, Jan. 21, 1661-2; m. Bradford, June 23, 1690, Abiah Dalton.

* The order of the court at the September term in 1655, relating to this matter, was as follows: "Ye court being informed yt there is no ferry across Merrimack river at Haverhill, ye court orders Robert Haseltine to keep a ferry over said river, and to have of strangers 4 pence if they pay presently and six pence if boekt; and to keepe entertainment for one year for horse and man unless ye court take further orders."

All of the above has been taken from a volume entitled "Hazelton Genealogy", author Dr. William B. Lapham, published in 1892, by Franklin Herbert Hazelton, Portland, Maine, in 1892, to which some interpolations have been added. In that very creditable volume the author lists upwards of 400 lineal descendants of the above Robert Hazelton, including many of the eighth generation, but of course no vital statistics are included subsequent to 1892. In that same volume are included the names of more than 700 lineal descendants of the said John Hazelton, including many of the eighth and ninth generations. In the descendants of both John and Robert there are many lines that are not complete through no fault of the author, but due to failure of information to reach him in time for publication.

Also, in the following incomplete list of the descendants of John Hazelton, the brother of Robert Hazelton above, much of the information has been obtained from "Hazelton Genealogy" down to and including that of Thaddeus Hazelton (1760-1845), where that volume stops with listing some of his children. The original information supplied therein has been added to in certain cases for the first six generations, and from the seventh generation forward new material has been supplied. No attempt has been made to duplicate a great deal of genealogical information found in "Hazelton Genealogy" in all lines of descent; but beginning with about the eighth generation effort has been made to bring together, so far as possible, material facts as to the descendants of Ransom Hazelton (1792-1878). Even such a compilation as presented herein will be far from complete.

However, before taking up the descendants of the first John Hazelton in this country, it is eminently proper that several generations of the descendants of Robert Hazelton, in the direct line, be recorded herein to show the immediate ancestry of Ann Hazelton Judson, the wife of Dr. Adoniram Judson. The second generation has been given above, and there follows the third, fourth, fifth and sixth generations of her lineage.

THIRD GENERATION

I. Robert; II. Abraham

Abraham² Hazelton, b. Rowley, March 3, 1648; m. Rowley, October 4, 1671, Elizabeth daughter of Richard Langhorne. Hazelton became preceptress in 1815, and when Mr. Benjamin Greenleaf, the principal, resigned, she succeeded him, and continued in this position until her death, but was relieved from the more arduous duties during her later years. She was an accomplished and efficient teacher. She had broad views of education, and her aim was to fit her pupils for all of life's duties. She was a rare woman. In person, tall; in presence, commanding; as a teacher, earnest, faithful and inspiring.

Nancy⁶ Hazelton, changed her Christian name to Ann and became the wife of Rev. Adoniram Judson. Her conversion to Christianity took place when she was not far from seventeen years of age. The interest she exhibited for religious reading of the most elevated character was remarkable in a person comparatively so young. She became a member of the Congregational church in Bradford, Mass., Sept. 14, 1806. With a desire to be useful and to secure the means of an independent support, she engaged for several years, at intervals, in teaching. At the meeting of the Massachusetts Congregational Association in June, 1810, Mr. Judson met his future wife. His persuasive words induced her to consent to share the fortunes of his missionary life, as well as to be the first American woman who "resolved to leave her friends and country to bear the gospel to the heathen in foreign climes". She was married to Mr. Judson, in Bradford, February 17, 1812. On the outward voyage to Calcutta she changed--as did her husband--her views on the mode and subjects of baptism, and was baptized with her husband by Rev. Mr. Ward. The missionary life of Mrs. Judson is so intertwined with that of Dr. Judson that the record of the latter contains all that need to be said in that of the former. With the same fidelity and patience which characterized her husband, she applied herself to learning the language, and at the close of 1815, she states that she can both read and write it with a good degree of ease. She was the efficient helper of Dr. Judson for several years, when she was compelled by her failing health to return to her native land. On the 21st of August, 1821, she embarked for Bengal, and on reaching Calcutta took passage for England. The kindest attention was shown to her both in England and Scotland. She embarked on the ship "Amity" at Liverpool, August 16, 1822, and arrived at New York the 25th of the September following, and after a brief visit to Philadelphia, she hastened to her old home in Bradford. The severity of a northern climate to one who had lived for so many years in the East was more than her enfeebled constitution could endure, and she was forced to make her winter home in Baltimore with her brother-in-law, Dr. Elnathan Judson. Here she rapidly improved in health, and was able to write an interesting account of the Burman mission. A few weeks of the following spring she spent among Christian friends in Washington, and then returned to Massachusetts. On the 21st of June, 1823, she embarked on her return voyage to Calcutta, having as her companions Rev. Jonathan Wade and his wife, and arrived at Rangoon on the 5th of the following December.

The narrative of the fortunes of Dr. and Mrs. Judson in Ava, to which city they proceeded soon after the arrival of the latter in Rangoon, is told in history and need not be repeated here. The pitiful story of the dreadful sufferings of their first convert, Oung-peu-la, reads almost like a romance. The noble, heroic character of this most gifted woman has touched the sensibilities of thousands of Christian hearts; and the memorial of all that she did and endured for her husband will not soon be forgotten. When the anxiety and the intense and prolonged excitement connected with eighteen months of bitter trial had passed away, there came the natural reaction, and when the disease which forced her to return to her native land assumed a more violent type her weakened physical system was unable to endure the attack, and she yielded to its force. Early in the month of October, 1826, she was stricken with the fever which finally proved fatal, and died October 24th, 1826, in Bradford. The sad event was followed in a few months by the death of "little Maria," and together they were buried under the "Hopia" tree at Amherst. She was one of the noblest women that ever bore the Christian name. Her hallowed fame will be handed down with reverence to the last generation of Christ's followers on earth.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN HAZELTON -----

John Hazelton, a brother of Robert, has already been spoken of as one of Rev. Ezekiel Rogers' colony at Rowley, and as one of the first three settlers of that part of Rowley afterward incorporated as Bradford. He lived in Bradford quite a number of years, but previous to 1660, he had crossed the Merrimack river and had become a resident of Haverhill originally called Pentucket. This town was settled in 1640, by twelve men from Newbury and Ipswich. Two years later there were thirty settlers. The first town meeting was held in 1643. In the autumn of 1648, the first meeting house was built, and in the same year a ferry was established by Robert Hazelton at the place still called "the old ferry way," situated a little east of the foot of Kent Street. This ferry was to connect the two settlements of Bradford and Haverhill and rendered the inhabitants of the two places neighbors. In 1665, John Hazelton gave the people of Bradford one acre of land for a meeting house lot, on condition that the grantees should care for it and keep it properly fenced, but subsequently his son Samuel Hazelton who resided in Bradford released the people of Bradford from this obligation. John Hazelton married Joan Auter, said to have been of Biddeford, England, and from the family of a Mr. Holman of that place. It has been said that John Hazelton was married before he came from England, but this is doubtful. He was no doubt younger than Robert who was married in Rowley, and whose eldest child was older by five years than the oldest of John. The will of John Hazelton was made August 17, 1689, and proved March 31, 1691; and his widow died Haverhill July 17, 1698. He died Haverhill, Dec. 23, 1690, aged seventy years.

John Hazelton (29), born in Bradford, was an early resident of Sutton, his name appearing upon the town records as early as 1728. His wife was Jane Wood, born March 5, 1706, and died Townshend, Vt., Feb. 16, 1810, aged one hundred three years, eleven months, eleven days. John became a large land owner in Sutton and vicinity. On August 10, 1732, he bought of John Plumley, a right in the adjoining town of Mendon, and on the same day he bought of Samuel Dudley, a half right in Mendon lands. Also Aug. 10, 1732, John Hazelton bought of Seth Aldridge of Mendon, a lot of land in Sutton. Nov. 1, 1730, John Hazelton bought of John Perham of Sutton, a right in the "Pratt" meadow so called. Mr. Hazelton also bought land of Elisha Johnson of Sutton Aug. 10, 1732, of Samuel Wood of same, Sept. 6, 1732, of Edward Holman Dec. 22, 1732, and Dec. 6, 1737, he bought of Jabez Ross of Ipswich a swamp and meadow lands situated in the town of Upton. In 1735, on petition of John Hazelton and others, a new town was incorporated, made up of parts of Hopkinton, Mendon, Sutton and Uxbridge and John Hazelton became a resident of Upton. In 1762, Mr. Hazelton was a resident of Uxbridge, having leased the iron works there of John Merrill, merchant of Providence, R. I. He gave a bond to fulfill the conditions of the lease signed by his sons Asa and Silas as sureties. The real estate of Asa Hazelton is described as four hundred acres of land in Upton, with two houses, a barn and a smith's shop standing thereon, situated on the road leading from Grafton to Mendon. The property of Silas Hazelton is described as thirty acres known as the forge lot, one forge with three fires, three dwelling houses, one barn, one coal house, one corn mill, one bottling mill, one scythe mill, bounded easterly by land of Daniel March, and on the road leading from the said farm to Worcester, northerly by land of Mr. March, westerly by Mr. Gowings' land, extending to the Blackstone river, then down said river to the land of Nathaniel Gowing.

In 1763, John Hazelton was at Litchfield, Conn., and Aug. 16th of that year, he and wife Jane deeded to David Wadsworth of Grafton, land in Grafton.

In 1753 John petitioned the New Hampshire Provincial Council for land, and as a result of this petition a grant (No. 3) of the town of Townshend (now a part of Windham county, Vermont) was made to him and 68 others; and at the organization meeting held on the last Wednesday of August, 1753, Col. John Hazelton (29) was chairman, and was appointed selectman, his name appearing first among five so appointed. The meeting was held in Worcester, Mass. Among those named as proprietors of the town of Townshend at the organization meeting are the following: John Hazelton, Esq., John Hazelton son of Silas, Paul Hazelton, Peter Hazelton, heirs Silas Hazelton, Silas Hazelton, jr., Josiah Fish, Esq., Samuel Fletcher. (Hemenway - "Vermont Historical Gazetteer" volume 5, part 2.) The reader will recognize these names as those closely related to Col. John Hazelton. The land referred to in the Grant, made by the Prov. of New Hampshire was claimed to be within the boundaries of the Prov. of New York. The question was submitted to the King of England for decision, and by an order in council passed on the 20th day of July, 1764, King George the III declared the western bank of the Connecticut river to be the boundary line between his province of New Hampshire and New York. This order was proclaimed by Gov. Colden of New York, on the 10th of April, 1765; and the governor of the Province of New Hampshire by proclamation recommended to the proprietors and settlers of the "grants" submission and due obedience to the authority and laws of the colony of New York.

The proprietors of Townshend were neither alarmed nor made indignant by the transfer of jurisdiction to New York. Management and control of their proprietary interest were little changed thereby. Whatever opposition was made to these land titles proved to be of a yielding nature, and they submitted to the new authority. In due time, their New Hampshire charter was confirmed by the government of New York, in response to a petition for that purpose. Agreeably to a colonial statute of New York, deeds and conveyances of any interest in real estate were recorded in the secretary's office of the colony, or in the county records of the county where the real estate was situated. This law was in force while the town remained under the jurisdiction of New York.

Settlement of the town of Townshend was commenced by John Baird, Thomas Baird, and Col. John Hazelton (29) about the first of June, 1761. Nothing was done this season, except to build a log hut and commence work upon the lots taken by the newcomers.

The land taken up by Col. Hazelton in 1761, was situated in the west part of the town, where he soon afterwards built a log fort upon the meadow now owned (1892) by Deacon Pierce. During the same season, the Bairds located their rights near the ford of West river. Joseph Tyler of Uxbridge, and John Howe of Framingham, commenced their clearings in 1764; the former upon the Bridge farm near the east village; the latter upon the Hiram Howe farm in school district No. 7. John Burt of Killingly, Conn., and Paul Hazelton (87) of Uxbridge, came in 1765. None of the settlers remained here, however, during the winter months prior to 1766.

The oldest towns in the present county of Windham, Vt., were granted by the Colonial government of New Hampshire, when Benning Wentworth was governor of that province. Their corporate names remind one of the Earl of Halifax, the Duke of Marlborough, the Earl of Wilmington, the Marquis of Rockingham, Francis Fane and Charles Townshend, who were distinguished members of the ministries at whose pleasure Gov. Wentworth held his office.

Of the New Hampshire Grants on the east side of the Green Mountains the seventh in chronological order was called Townshend. This town is situated a little north of the geographical center of Windham county, and at the time that Acton was annexed, was bounded N. by Acton and Athens, E. by Athens and Brookline, S. by Brookline and Newfane, W. by Wardsboro, Jamaica and Windham. While on the E. and S. the bounds of 1840 remain to the present day.

Within the limits of the town are four neighborhoods: The East Village, West Village, Harmonyville and Simpsonville. Of these the largest is the East Village, which is the business center.

West river in passing through the southwesterly part of the town receives the waters of Action brook, Fair brook, Negro brook, Jay brook and Mill brook. Fletcher brook is tributary to Acton brook. Numerous springs and rivulets furnish an abundant supply of pure water. The land rises often gradually, sometimes precipitously, to the ridges by which the valleys are terminated. These divides are of considerable height, and especially in the vicinity of West river, present a succession of rocky hills. Two of these eminences have been named Peaked mountain and Bald mountain from the peculiarity of their appearance. The original town has nearby the rock formations which exist in Acton. Fine specimens of water crystals have been found in the southeastern part of the town. A ledge upon the James Grey farm affords material for excellent lime. Boulders of granite and syemite that can be split into fence posts are occasionally found. The primitive forest, unbroken, and extending to the summit of the hills, mostly consisting of maple, birch, beech, hemlock and spruce. Among these are interspersed the ash, oak and elm, basswood, cottonwood, butternut and pine.

Two flourishing villages besides many comfortable and desirable dwellings scattered about town, are outgrowths of what has been done here in the way of business. The inhabitants, with few exceptions, have been engaged in agricultural pursuits, and their success has been such that Townshend in 1891 ranks in population as ninth of 23 towns comprising the county of Windham and the sixth in wealth.

The charter of the town of Townshend is dated June 20, 1753. It is in the usual form and we now give only the particulars wherein it is supposed to be different from any township charter executed by the same magistracy. The premises conveyed are bounded as follows: "Beginning at a stake and stones, the northeasterly corner of Fane, then running six miles N. 20 degrees E to a stake and stones, thence W. 10 degrees N. to a stake and stones, thence S. 20 degrees W. to the N. W. corner of Fane, thence E. 10 degrees S. by Fane as aforesaid, to the N. E. corner thereof, being the stake and stones begun at."

Another portion of the charter is expressed in these words: "The first meeting for the choice of town officers, agreeable to the laws of our province, shall be held on the last Wednesday in August next, (1753), which

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the origin of life. It is shown that the problem is one of the most important and interesting in the history of science. The author discusses the various theories of the origin of life, and shows that the most probable one is that of spontaneous generation.

The second part of the paper is devoted to a detailed discussion of the theory of spontaneous generation. It is shown that this theory is based on the fact that life is a complex phenomenon, and that it is not possible to explain it by the action of a single cause. The author discusses the various factors which are necessary for the origin of life, and shows that the most probable one is that of spontaneous generation.

The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the evidence in favor of the theory of spontaneous generation. It is shown that there is a great deal of evidence in favor of this theory, and that it is the most probable one.

The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the objections to the theory of spontaneous generation. It is shown that there are several objections to this theory, but that they are all based on a misunderstanding of the facts. The author shows that the theory of spontaneous generation is based on the fact that life is a complex phenomenon, and that it is not possible to explain it by the action of a single cause. The author discusses the various factors which are necessary for the origin of life, and shows that the most probable one is that of spontaneous generation.

The ownership of the grant was divided into 74 shares, 69 persons whose names are on the back of the charter, took one share each, the other five shares are conveyed in these words: "To His Excellency, Benning Wentworth, Esq., a tract of land to contain five hundred acres, which is to be accounted two of the within shares. One whole share for the Incorporated Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign parts. One whole share for the first settled Minister of the Gospel in said town. One whole share for the Ministry of the Church of England as by law established."

The sixty-nine grantees arranged in alphabetical order comprise the following names:

Each of the shares, except those of the governor, represents a little more than three hundred and thirteen acres of land. Records in the town clerk's office show that Rev. Nicolas Dudley and Luke Knowlton, conveyed the rights which belonged to the governor. The ministerial right passed to Rev. Nicolas Dudley, and was located where Deacon Belknap afterwards lived. The glebe seems to have been located upon the steepest part of the rocky hill back of the present residence of Col. Twitchell.

Nothing is known of what became of the original charter. In the town clerk's office there is a copy which was duly authenticated by the Secretary of State of New Hampshire on the 29th of June, 1774. Upon it is also the

The results of the 1974 election were a surprise to many. The Conservative Party, led by Edward Heath, had been expected to win a second term. However, the Labour Party, led by Harold Wilson, won a narrow victory. This was due to a combination of factors, including the economic problems of the Conservative government and the popularity of Wilson's leadership.

The Labour government's policies were aimed at reducing inflation and promoting economic growth. They introduced a three per cent limit on wage increases and a five per cent limit on price increases. These measures were intended to curb inflation, which had been rising steadily since 1970. However, the economy continued to struggle, and by 1976, the government was facing a severe balance of payments crisis. This led to the resignation of Wilson and the appointment of James Callaghan as Prime Minister.

Party	Seats	Percentage of Votes
Conservative Party	297	43.9%
Labour Party	301	43.8%
Liberal Party	7	9.0%
Independent	1	0.1%
Other	2	0.2%

The 1974 election was a significant event in British history. It marked the end of the Conservative Party's long reign and the beginning of a new era of Labour government. The election also highlighted the importance of economic policy in determining the outcome of a general election. The Labour government's policies were aimed at reducing inflation and promoting economic growth, but they ultimately failed to achieve their goals. This led to the resignation of Wilson and the appointment of Callaghan as Prime Minister.

following certificate, in compliance likely with some action under a resolution of the General Assembly passed in June, 1779:

"State of Vermont
Surveyor General's Office
August 7, 1780

The foregoing charter and bounds of the several towns (Halifax, Marlborough, Fane and Newfane) are recorded in the first book of New Hampshire charters, from page 20 to 28.

Examined by

Surveyor General."

Col. John Hazelton (29) procured the granting of the township, and the first settlers used to relate that he had names of his neighbors and acquaintances entered as grantees on the back of the charter without their knowledge; that soon after the town was granted, he went round and called upon these unadvised proprietors, saying to each: "What shall I give you for a quit claim of your right in Townshend?" The invariable reply was, "I don't know as I have got any right, or interest there." This answer brought out the inquiry: "What is it worth to you then, and what will you take for it?" The satisfactory reply was: "Oh, give us a mug of tod, and I will deed you all the right I have to anything up there." The liquor would soon be furnished, and under its inspiration a deed would be executed. There may be more fact than fiction in the story, for our land records show that within nine months of the date of the charter, Col. Hazeltine became the owner of sixteen rights for the consideration of one shilling each, which is the sum he would have paid for the toddy, had it been brought in when a deed of one of the rights was delivered to him.

The proprietors' book of records show what was done by the original grantees to effect a division in severalty of this land, and to forward a settlement of the town; it also contains the pitches of the land made by the proprietors, and laid out by committees appointed for that purpose; but no conveyance from grantor to grantee was recorded therein.

We now present a copy of the proprietors' record prior to the year 1755.

"Warning and proceedings of first meeting of properietors.
July the 24th, 1753.

"I, the subscriber, being appointed by the governor and council of New Hampshire government to notify the grantees of a new township, Viz: Townshend, to attend the first meeting on the last Wednesday of August in this present year; you are hereby notified to attend the first meeting of the grantees of Townshend, in the Province of New Hampshire, said meeting to be held in the house of Mr. Luke Brown, innholder, in Worcester (Mass.?), at ten of the clock in the forenoon of the last Wednesday of August, 1753; to choose town officers for said Townshend agreeably to the laws of the Province of New Hampshire; and likewise to choose proprietors' officers for the township of Townshend; and also to transact any other affairs, matters or things that the said proprietors or grantees shall think proper to encourage, promote and forward the settlement of the said town of Townshend.

John Hazeltine."

At a meeting of the grantees of the Township (of Townshend) in the Province of New Hampshire, regularly assembled and met at the house of Mr. Luke Brown on the last Wednesday of August at ten of the clock in the forenoon, in the year 1753. Said meeting was authorized and appointed by his excellency, the governor, and the honorable council of said Province of New Hampshire, in and by the charter of said Townshend; and likewise John Hazeltine (29) appointed moderator of said meeting; at said meeting the following votes were passed or the things hereafter mentioned were transacted:

1. William Young, chosen town clerk for said Townshend and likewise clerk for said grantees in land affairs, and sworn to the faithful discharge of his office in the meeting.

2. John Hazeltine, Esq., Isaac Barnard, Esq., and Mr. Benjamin Woodbury, Benjamin Marsh, and William Young, chosen selectmen.

3. William Young and Thomas Denny, chosen assessors.

4. Jonathan Ha(i)le, chosen treasurer, and was sworn to the faithful discharge of said office in said meeting.

5. Abner Hazeltine (98) chosen constable and collector.

6. Voted, that the above named selectmen be a committee to prosecute affairs respecting the settlement of the said Townshend, and agreeable to such directions as shall be hereafter given them.

7. Voted, that said committee proceed to run the lines or bounds of said township, agreeable to the charter, as soon as may be; likewise that tract of land noted in the charter of which each grantee is to be allotted one acre.

8. Voted, that said committee then proceed to lay out seventy-two lots, each lot to contain as a standard either forty or fifty acres, as said committee upon viewing said township shall judge convenient or most proper; and that said lots be laid out quantity for quality; and also five hundred acres in one tract for his excellency, Benning Wentworth, agreeable to the charter.

9. Voted, that a tax of two dollars be assessed on each right, and that said tax be paid to the treasurer at or before next meeting for the drawing of the lots.

Voted, also, that any of the grantees which shall neglect or refuse to pay said tax as above shall be secluded (excluded?) the privilege of drawing his or their lot or lots.

10. Voted, that the above named committee be appointed a committee to appoint meetings of said grantees, for the future; and that they notify all such meetins as they shall appoint by posting up notifications in writing, 14 days before the meeting at the dwelling houses of Mr. Luke Brown in Worcester (Mass. ?), Jonathan Hale and Samuel Buck in Sutton; and that in said notifications be inserted the time and place when and where of such meetings, together with the articles to be acted upon by said grantees when met.

11. That the charges or expenses of this meeting, viz: five pounds, five shillings and three pence, old tenor, be paid by the treasurer, Jonathan (Ha(i)le, out of the public money of said society or grantees.

Then said meeting was dissolved.

Test,

William Young, P. Clerk.

While the French and Indian war was raging, a settlement of the town was impracticable, and proceedings of the proprietors were suspended during the eventful years from 1754 to 1761. The victory of Wolfe in 1759 and the capitulation of Vaudreuil in 1760, followed by the treaties of Fontainbleau and Paris, severed Canada and the districts east of it from the control of France. French and Indian incursions, which had so long scourged the people of New England, were to be feared no longer. A frontier of wide extent had been opened to settlement under the quiet and security of English rule. Provincial soldiers discharged upon the surrender of the French in Canada, and resolute adventurers flocked hither to occupy and become owners of the land known as the New Hampshire Grants.

Years ago the following anecdote was in circulation about the first settlement of the town of Townshend. The story is given as we wrote it from the lips of an old gentleman:

"At a meeting In Massachusetts of the grantees, old Col. Hazelton got it fixed that the proprietor who should get here (Townshend) first, with the intention to settle, might have the first choice of lots which had been surveyed. The two Bairds were present; they saw what the Colonel was up to, and mistrusted that he would be in Townshend as soon as possible, to take up the best lots. They determined to get in ahead of him, and started for this town at the close of the meeting. Col. Hazelton went home and passed the night. Early in the morning he said to his wife 'I am going to Townshend.' He was soon on his way and without any unnecessary halt, came to what is now called the Elder Hodges farm in Newfane, where he stopped overnight. Starting in good season the next day and hurrying on, it was not late when he forded West river where the lower bridge stands. On reaching the bank, he saw a smoke and near it found the two Bairds engaged in clearing a spot for their cabin. Instantly comprehending the situation, the old gentleman, with a low bow and bland good-bye, gave the reins a jerk or two, put spurs to his horse, rode on and selected lots further up the river." (Hemenway-Vermont Historical Gazetteer. Vol. 5- pages 532 and following.)

Col. John Hazelton on Oct. 9, 1777, conveyed to his son Asa Hazelton of Upton, land in Sutton, it being all the land the grantee owned in Sutton, situated on Blackstone river "bounded by land belonging to the heirs of Silas Hazelton, deceased, and by the homestead where the widow of Silas Hazelton now lives" &c.

With all the above in printed history with reference to Col. John Hazelton it is surprising that the definite date of his birth, marriage, and death, have not been recorded in print since a search of more than 300 volumes on genealogy have failed to make such dates certain and exact. In most references the statement is usually after this order- John Hazelton, b. 1702; d. 1777. It is evident that the year 1777 is correct, for on Nov. 21, 1777, the following certificate was executed, and was subsequently placed upon record: "Uxbridge Nov. 21, 1777, I, Jane Hazelton, widow of John Hazelton, wholly decline taking it upon me to administer upon the estate of my late husband. I desire my son Paul and Joshua Wood to do that business.

"Jane Hazelton.

"Witness--John Hazelton, Richard Wood."

It is very definite that John Hazelton died sometime between Oct. 9, 1777, when he deeded land to his son Asa Hazelton, and Nov. 21, 1777, when his widow Jane Hazelton declined to administer his estate.

Paul Hazelton, son of Col. John Hazelton, removed to Townshend about 1765 and did administer his father's estate.

Jane Wood Hazelton the widow of Col. John Hazelton died in Townshend, Vermont., Feb. 16, 1810, aged one hundred three years, eleven months, eleven days. Her birth therefore must have occurred on March 5, 1706. Her grandson, Elijah L. Fish, then living in Birmingham, Mich., on Aug. 26, 1857, wrote relative to Jane Wood Hazelton:

"My Grandmother Hazelton though a small lady was a very strong woman. At one time she lifted a trip hammer which weighed five hundred pounds. When her husband first settled in Vermont, being destitute of an oven, she carried stones in her apron from the river to the house, several rods distant, built an oven for herself and baked in it the same day. She took great delight in spinning. The day she was one hundred and one years old, she spun a day's work on a little wheel. When nearly one hundred years old she frequently visited her children with a child to lead her; she would walk to one of her son's, two or three miles from home in one day and after spending a day or two would go on to another son's, three or four miles further."

Dr. Joshua Wood brought in a claim against the estate of Col. John Hazelton of E 1496-5-10. This made trouble and Asa and Peter Hazelton petitioned the court that this demand be disallowed or cut down. Finally, the estate was declared insolvent and commissioners were appointed who adjusted the claims against it. Mr. Hazelton had been an active and energetic business man. His business was varied, but some of the schemes failed to be profitable and, in his old age, he was financially embarrassed. When he settled in Sutton the country was new and he became a very extensive farmer. For many years he was called in deeds and other official papers, "husbandman" then he was designated "esquire" and later "gentleman". He wrote a plain hand for that day, and often did business for his towns people as a conveyancer.

His children born part in Sutton and part in Upton but all upon the same farm probably within the same house, were as follows:

Children: (of IV. John Hazelton and Jane Wood)

- 87 i. Paul⁵, b. Sutton, Nov. 20, 1728; m. Upton, July 25, 1754, Mary Rice.

Paul⁵ Hazelton, b. Sutton, Nov. 20, 1728; m. Upton, July 25, 1754, Mary Rice; d. about 17-- , in Townshend, Windham county, Vermont. He was the administrator of his father's estate. Paul settled in Townshend in 1765. The U.S. Census of 1790 shows him to be living then at Townshend; but the U.S. Census of 1800 does not list his name; the inference is that he died sometime between these dates. He had a Revolutionary War record. His father, Col. John Hazelton, who had become a captain in earlier times, was Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence of Cumberland County and a delegate to the Provincial Congress of New York, in connection with the early years of the Revolution (1775-1777). At various times, the Town of Townshend was a portion of the following counties: Cumberland, Albany, Schenectady and Windham. The children of Paul Hazelton and Mary Rice as given below are all recorded in Townshend, Windham county, Vermont, but in view of what has been said previously, it is considered likely that the births of their first four children took place in Massachusetts.

Children:

Thaddeus⁶ Hazelton was a farmer in Morrisville, New York. He moved to Canada, but returned and was buried in New York state. His wife was Content _____ . We have not the family record and cannot name the children in the order of their births. In addition to the sons here given, there were two or more daughters.

Children:

- 297 1-6 i. Benjamin⁷, b. _____
- 297 2-6 ii. Ransom⁷, b. _____
- 297 3-6 iii. John⁷, b. _____
- 297 4-6 iv. Squire⁷, b. _____
- 297 5-6 v. Herman⁷, b. _____, 1807; m. Lucinda Patrick.

("Hazelton Genealogy", referred to earlier in this text, with reference to the family of Thaddeus Hazelton stops with the words "Lucinda Patrick." Herman above should read Heman. "Hazelton Genealogy" continues with reference to the descendants of Heman Hazelton, and of his son William Patrick Hazelton, as follows:)

I. John; II. Samuel; III. John; IV. John; V. Paul; VI. Thaddeus; VII. Heman.

Heman⁷ Hazelton married in Madison, N. Y., 1830, Lucinda Patrick, daughter of an Irish physician. He died in 1841, and his widow married again and had four children.

Children:

- 534 1-5 i. William Patrick⁸, b. 1832.
 534 2-5 ii. Lucinda⁸, b. 1836.
 534 3-5 iii. Jane E.⁸ b. 1839; r. Canada.
 534 4-5 iv. Charles F.⁸, b. 1842; r. California.

N I N T H G E N E R A T I O N

William⁸ Patrick Hazelton is a Baptist preacher in Mecklenburg, N. Y. He was born in Nelson, Madison Co., N. Y., March 2, 1832. When he was five years of age his parents moved to Canada. He married in Canada Oct. 27, 1859, Elvira, daughter of Timothy and Sarah Fairchild, who died Dec. 4, 1881.

Children:

- 692 1-6 i. Herbert⁹ S., b. Oct. 3, 1860; d. Nov. 19, 1861.
 692 2-6 ii. Elizabeth⁹ Ann, b. April 20, 1862.
 692 3-6 iii. Ordway⁹ Timothy, b. Jan. 9, 1864; d. April 7, 1865.
 692 4-6 iv. Charles⁹ H., b. Dec. 26, 1866; d. Oct. 16, 1877.
 692 5-6 v. Frederick⁹ William, b. Jan. 20, 1870.

The fractional numbers given above, beginning with 297 1-6 Benjamin Hazelton and ending with 692 5-6 Frederick William Hazelton, would indicate that the information was received by the author of "Hazelton Genealogy" after the manuscript had been nearly completed by the typesetter and these fractional numbers were given at the last moment to avoid renumbering of the individuals throughout the remainder of the book. There is no further information included in "Hazelton Genealogy" with reference to the family and descendants of Thaddeus Hazelton than that shown above.

It seems very probable that such information as was given above about the descendants of Thaddeus Hazelton was furnished by the Rev. William Patrick Hazelton (No. 534 1-5), and while a few errors have crept in, the facts in the main were correct. It is pointed out that Morrisville, N. Y., is in the town of Eaton, Madison County, N. Y., which adjoins to the east of the town of Nelson, Madison County, N. Y. Also it is proper to correct the statement that the wife of Thaddeus Hazelton was Content _____. It will be shown later that the wife of Thaddeus Hazelton was named Mary (or Polly) but her surname before marriage has not been revealed after diligent search. There was a Content Brown who married Benjamin Hazelton No. 297 1-6, the eldest son of Thaddeus Hazelton.

It is regretted that further information concerning the families of Heman Hazelton (No. 297 5-6) and his son Rev. William Patrick Hazelton (No. 534 1-5) is not available. It is known only that the latter was living in the year 1910, and as he was then 78 years old, he probably died soon thereafter.

In the "Hazelton Genealogy" the highest number given to an individual included therein was 748. To avoid confusion with any numbers given therein, the numbers in this present extension will begin at No. 750.

We shall now turn back to the SEVENTH GENERATION and resume consideration of the descendants of Thaddeus⁶ Hazelton (No. 155) making such additions and corrections as may be necessary.

It would appear that Thaddeus Hazelton spent the time from about 1765 until sometime before his maturity in the Town of Townshend, Windham County, Vermont, and then removed to the Town of Tinmouth, Rutland County, Vermont, for in Goodrich "Vermont Revolutionary Rolls, 1775-1783", on page 348, it is shown that Thaddeus Hazelton (No. 155 above) and his brother Ryal (for Royal No. 156 above) served in Capt. John Burt's Company in Col. Samuel Fletcher's Regiment of Militia, in the month of March, 1781. In the same volume on pages 392 and 572, it is shown that Paul Hazelton (either 87 above or 157 above) served in Capt. Josiah Fish's Company in Col. Samuel Fletcher's Battalion in the service of the State of Vermont from the beginning of the campaign in 1781 to the close of the campaign Oct. 18, 1781. It will incidentally be noticed that Joshua (Josiah) Fish married Elizabeth Hazelton (No. 90 above) and that Col. Samuel Fletcher married Mehitable Hazelton (No. 97 above).

In the U. S. Census for Vermont, year 1790, Town of Tinmouth, Rutland County, Thaddeus Hazelton was listed as the head of a family with three males under 16 years of age; these boys were probably Benjamin, born 1786, and -----b. 178--, and-----, b. 178--. In his family were also three females including the head; Mary his wife was the head; the two other females were-----b. 178--, and-----b. 178--.

In the U. S. Census for Vermont, year 1800, Town of Tinmouth, Rutland County, Thaddeus Hazelton was listed as the head of a family, of 26 years and under 45 years of age (he was b. 1760), and had one male of 10 years and under 15: this was Benjamin, b. 1786; and three males under 10 years of age; these would be Ransom, b. May 11, 1792; John, b. 179--, and Squire, b. 179--; his family also had two females under ten years of age, and one female over ten and under 16 years of age, and one female of 26 years and under 45 years including the head; his wife Mary was the head (b. March 22, 1763); the one female over ten and under sixteen was b. 178--; the two females under ten years were b. 179--, and b. 179--.

In the books of the Clerk of the Town of Tinmouth, Rutland County, Vt. (in 1948, Mr. Edward E. Weeks) there were found records of real estate transfers as follows in which some of the Hazeltons were grantors or grantees:

As to Thadeus Haselton (always spelled that way):

Only a few of the above were examined to ascertain especially, if possible, the full maiden name of the wife of Thaddeus, but in no case examined was it shown. Apparently in those days and in that jurisdiction, it was not necessary for the wife to join with her husband in signing real estate deeds in which he was the grantor.

A brief description of certain deeds examined show the following:

Thadeus Haselton, yeoman

Dec. 24, 1793

Consideration 130 pounds.

It will be noticed that there seemed to be no uniform date used for the change in stating the consideration from pounds to dollars. Here were two brothers, Thaddeus and Royal Haselton, having real estate transfers- Thaddeus, on April 13, 1797, stating the consideration in dollars, and Royal, as late as Sept. 22, 1797, indicating the consideration in pounds.

Funk & Wagnalls Standard Dictionary gives the definition:

yeoman, 1. (Eng.) A freeholder next under the rank of gentleman; in modern usage a farmer.

The conclusion is that Thaddeus was a farmer, and from the numerous real estate transfers indicated above, a holder of considerable real estate.

In the Clerk's office at Tinmouth were also some records of the one church in the village of Tinmouth (Congregational) and also some old records of the school district located there. No attempt was made to ascertain dates of births, marriages and deaths since these were not indexed.

The court house of the county of Rutland, located in Rutland, Vt., and according to the index there were no real estate transfers involving the names of Thaddeus Haselton and Royal Haselton, between the years 1775 and 1815.

The original charter for the Town of Tinmouth (New Hampshire Grants) dated Sept. 15, 1762, is filed in the office of the Clerk of the Town of Tinmouth, and on its back are recorded the signatures of the original proprietors, but were not examined, since Thaddeus Hazelton was only two years old at the time of the charter.

A volume entitled "Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War" shows the following:

"Hazeltime- This name also appears under the form of Arseltime, Haelton, Haiseton, Halston, Hasalton, Hasealtine, Haseltin, Haseltine, Haselton, Hasletan, Hasletine, Haslhtine, Haslington, Haslington, Hassaltine, Hasseltine, Hasselton, Hassethine, Hayseltine, Hazeltn, Hazetne, Hazelton, Hazeltone, Hazleton, Heaselton, Heseltine, Heselton, Hesetine, Hesseltine, Hesselton, Hesseltime, Hezelane, Hezeltin, Hezeltine, Hezelton, Hezzeltine, Hezzleton, Holston, Hosselton."

Asa Lyman Hazelton (1807-1906) wrote: "When my father was a boy in his teens he had a chum cousin about his own age whose name was John. The two boys agreed with each other that they would change the terminating syllable of their name from "tine" to "ton", thereby making the name Hazelton, instead of Hazeltime. After he became of age my father continued to write the name and was so known, as Hazelton, and all his children so spell the name."

Thaddeus Hazelton, his wife, and family sometime between 1800 and 1807 removed to the Town of Nelson, Madison County, N. Y. Just when is not certain. Author J. E. Smith in his biographical record of Madison County, New York, says: "The first and second town meetings in Nelson were held in the barn of Rufus Weaver on the 7th of April, 1807. The following officers were elected:  Jeremiah Clark, Simeon Marshall and Thaddeus Hazelton, assessors." The U. S. Census for the years 1810, 1820, 1830 and 1840 show Thaddeus Hazelton and his family to be living at those times in the Town of Nelson. No one by the name of Hazelton is shown in the U. S. Census for 1850, Town of Nelson. From the inscriptions on grave stone listed above it is known that Thaddeus Hazelton died July 28th, 1845, aged (nearly) 85 years; and his wife Mary died April 6, 1844, aged 81 years 15 days. Both are buried in the Pleasant Valley Cemetery (sometimes also called the Westcott Cemetery) located on the eastern boundary of the Town of Nelson, about one-half mile from the Cherry Valley Turnpike (U. S. No. 20). The rest of Thaddeus' family had before 1850 either died or removed.

The first part of the report is devoted to a general survey of the situation in the country at the end of 1919.

It is found that the country is in a state of general depression, and that the population is suffering from want and distress.

The second part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

The first cause mentioned is the failure of the harvest, which has been the result of a combination of factors, including drought, pestilence, and war. The second cause mentioned is the loss of the country's principal source of income, the export of raw materials, which has been the result of the war and the blockade.

THE CAUSES OF THE DEPRESSION

The third part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

The fourth part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

The fifth part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

THE EFFECTS OF THE DEPRESSION

The sixth part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

The seventh part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

The eighth part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

The ninth part of the report is devoted to a detailed account of the various causes of the depression.

Conveys Land in the Town of Nelson, land on Cherry Valley Turnpike--
This deed mentions Thaddeus Hazelton and Polly his wife as adjoining owners.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Horace Kellogg Smith, 91 years old (living on July 7th, 1948, in the Town of Nelson, about one and one-half miles south of the village of Cazenovia) information has been received that Royal Hazelton, (brother of Thaddeus Hazelton) was the original purchaser of Lot 23, Deed dated May 5, 1794, 150 acres at three dollars per acre, $450.00, contains conditions same as articles of agreement dated May 5, 1794. This property was afterwards transferred to Isaiah Gridley. E. Davis afterwards lived on S. W. corner of Lot No. 23. It is understood that Lot No. 23 is located on the Cherry Valley Turnpike about one mile east of Nelson Flats. Squire Hazelton is listed as a son of Thaddeus Hazelton.

It is considered probable that since Thaddeus Hazelton and his wife lived in the Town of Tinomuth, Rutland County, Vermont, from 1780 to 1800 at least, all of their children born prior to 1800 were born there; and since it is known that Lovisa A. Hazelton was born in Town of Nelson, Madison County, N.Y.,

April 2, 1802, it is also probable that any children born after 1802, were born in the Town of Nelson.

In a book entitled "Our County and its People. - A Descriptive and Biographical Record of Madison County, New York" author John E. Smith says beginning at page 105:

"The town of Nelson (Madison County) was erected from Cazenovia on March 13, 1807, and received its name in honor of the distinguished British naval officer, Admiral Nelson. It is No. 1 of the twenty townships, lies a little to the southeast of the center of the county, and is bounded on the north by Fenner and Smithfield, on the east by Eaton, on the south by Georgetown, and on the west by Cazenovia. Its area is about 26,000 acres. The surface is mainly hilly upland, broken in irregular ridges having a general north and south direction. It constitutes a part of the watershed between Oneida Lake and the Susquehanna River. The principal stream is Chittenango Creek, the northern and larger branch of which rises in Fenner, enters (the town of) Nelson near the center of the north boundary, and crosses the northwest part in a southerly direction. The smaller branch rises in the south central part, flows northwesterly and unites with the main branch near the west line of the town. The latter branch is fed by innumerable springs and with a more northerly tributary from the east forms the Erieville reservoir, which was constructed in 1857 as a feeder for the Erie Canal. (When the Barge Canal was built later such use was abandoned.) The Eaton reservoir, constructed as a feeder of the Chenango canal, is partly in the southeastern section of this town (Nelson). The underlying rocks of Nelson are the Tully limestone, the Genesee slate and the Ithaca group; a small part of the southeast and southwest corners is underlaid with the Hamilton group. Limestone is found only in boulders, and although some quarries have been opened, no desirable building stone has been taken out. The soil is generally a gravelly loam, well adapted for grazing and the production of hay. Dairying is the principal interest of the farming community. The town is at the present time (1899) largely an agricultural district.

"The territory of Nelson was originally patented to Alexander Webster, June 4, 1793, and in the same year was purchased by John Lincklaen, who was the active agent in promoting early settlements.

"Two public State roads were laid out in the early years that crossed this town; one of them is from (the town of) Eaton across the land afterwards covered by the Eaton reservoir, passed on over the hills through Erieville to Woodstock and onward in that direction. The other road came from Morrisville (in the town of Eaton) and crossed the town near the center in an east and west direction. The later Skaneateles Turnpike followed substantially the course of the first named road. The Cherry Valley Turnpike, built in 1806, left Morrisville and passes in a westerly course through the northern part of the town. The Syracuse and Chenango Valley branch of the West Shore railroad crosses Nelson in the southwest part with a station at Erieville.

"In 1793 Jedediah Jackson and Joseph Yaw visited and purchased land in the north part of the town in the interest of an association of men in Vermont, and during the two succeeding years 26 families, most of whom came from the vicinity of Pownall and were largely related, settled on the purchase or in other parts of the town. The names of the heads of these families follow: Jedediah and Asahel Jackson, brothers, Joseph Yaw and David, his brother, Ebenezer Lyon, Daniel Adams, Sylvania Sayles, Oliver Alger, Daniel and Isaac Coolidge, Levi Neil, Samuel and Thomas Swift, Roger Brooks, Ethan Howard, Robert and Solomon Brown, Thomas and Jesse Tuttle, Luther Doolittle, Joseph Cary, Jesse Clark, James Green, Eliphalet Jackson, John Everton, Amos Rathbone, David Nichols and Rufus Weaver. Some of these families did not remain permanently in the town, but the larger number retained their farms which they cleared and cultivated; many of them brought with them children who lived to be prominent in the community.

"The pioneers of Nelson were early favored by a near-by grist mill, which saved them many weary journeys and gave them better food products. James Annas was a settler before the beginning of the century, coming from Vermont and locating in the western part of the town. He at once built on Erieville Creek, about a mile and a half north of Erieville village site, a small mill and soon had it in operation. Ere long the property passed to the possession of his youngest son, Truman Annas, who sold it about 1818 to Oliver Pool.

"Three brothers named Wells (Gardner, Joshua and Robert) settled in Nelson in 1796, locating in the south part of the town about a mile east of the site of Erieville. Gardner and Joshua married in Rhode Island before coming west. The former was a blacksmith and probably the first one in the town. He followed this vocation until near the time of his death, and made many of the rude plows used in this section, and much of the primitive mill machinery. He had a son Gardner who was also a blacksmith. He died on his homestead in May, 1839. Frank Isbell now (1899) lives on the place.

"Joshua Wells resided on the fifty acres he first took up until a short time before his death, when he went to live with his sons, Clark and Joshua Wells; he died at the home of the latter in January, 1864, aged 92 years. He was twice married and had 16 children. His first child Palmer Wells, born June 12, 1796, was probably the first white child born on Nelson territory; he died at the age of 28 years. Joshua Wells held many town offices, was one of the organizers of the Erieville Baptist Church, and was a much respected citizen.

"Robert Wells, the third brother, lived to near the time of his death on the farm he first took up, which subsequently constituted a part of the Jeremiah Blair farm, now occupied by Frank Blair; he died in Erieville in Oct. 1842; aged 61 years.

"David Wellington settled in the town in either 1796 or 1797, about two miles east of Erieville, near the site of the reservoir, his farm becoming in later years a part of the Isaac Blair farm. He cleared an acre in his first season, and sowed it with wheat; his first habitation was a log shanty roofed with bark and floored with puncheons split from soft wood logs. He then went back to his former home in Cheshire, N. H., and brought in his wife. He was father of an estimable family and late in life went to live with his son David, a mile south of Cazenovia village, where both he and his wife died. He was one of the first justices of the peace of Nelson, holding the office about 20 years, and was honored with other public stations."

In a book entitled "History of Chenango and Madison Counties, N.Y., published by D. Mason & Co., Syracuse, N. Y., (1880), author James H. Smith, says:

"Nelson (village) is situated in the north part of the town and contains two churches (Methodist Episcopal and Free Methodist) a district school, three stores, 2 blacksmith shops, a carpenter shop, a wagon shop, a harness shop. Population 108. The little village is commonly known as Nelson Flats. *****

"The First Welsh Congregational Church of Nelson.- The first meetings were held about 1848 and the church organized in 1850. The members were then few in number. Among them were David E. Davis and wife, and Robert R. Jones and wife, and Mrs. Esther Thomas. They were permitted to use the old church building two and a half miles east of Nelson village, which was occupied by the Presbyterians before their removal to the village. This was conveniently located for the accommodation of Welsh settlers in the northeast part of the town, and was occupied as a place of worship for about 27 years. In 1876 a new church 55 by 34 feet was built at a cost of about $6,000.

"The ministers were:

1. Rev. John Lally - 7 years.
2. Rev. C. D. Jones - 1 1/2 years.
3. Rev. Benajmin H. Williams - 7 years
4. Rev. Griffith Jones who began his labors in 1875.

"The present number of members 184; the attendance at Sabbath School 150. Four or five young men have been sent by this church to preach the Gospel.

"The northeast part of the town was made the field of religious cultivation at a very early day, probably before 1800, by the Baptists and Presbyterians, though both organizations have long since ceased to exist, and very little definite information is obtainable concerning them. In 1813 the Baptists numbered 48, but they were without a pastor. This indeed was their condition during most of their subsequent existence. Rev. Nathan Peck served them as pastor from 1815 to 1819, and during his pastorate, in 1817, they reported to the association a membership of 123, a number they at no time afterwards reached. Only once afterwards a membership of 100 - in 1831, when they reported a membership of 104; and in that year, after an interval of 11 years, their next pastor, Daniel Dye, labored with them, but remained only a few years. During this period their membership gradually diminished till in 1829, it reached the lowest number 45. The next pastor was Roger Maddock, who served them from 1835 to 1837, during which time the membership decreased from 99 in 1835 to 79 in 1837, having in the intermediate year - 1836 - been reported at 76. Mr. Murdock was succeeded in 1838 by Lorenzo E. Swan, a licentiate, who served them that and the succeeding year. Rev. L. Smith was the pastor in 1843, and was followed in 1844 by D. M. Smith, a licentia te, who served them until 1848, during the last two years as pastor. At the close of his pastorate the membership, which during that period (in 1847) was as low as 38, numbered 43. F. B. Ames served them in 1849, and G. S. Carpenter in 1850, both licentiates. Rev. W. Kingsley was their last pastor, in 1852; and in that year the last report to the association was made, the number of members being reported as 33. The association minutes of that year refers to the condition: "A season of darkness has prevailed with the church; but being favored by the preaching of the word, they are beginning to awaken, and feel encouraged to hope for better days." This hopeful feeling, however, seems to have been but the gleam of their expiring life, for they lost their identity, and their house of worship, located three miles east of Nelson village, was a few years later occupied by the Free Methodist Society".

In a book entitled "History of Madison County, New York", published in 1872, the author, Mrs. L. M. Hammond Whitney, beginning at page 643, says:

"The old Baptist Church of Nelson also built a meeting house, which is located in the east part of the town, south of the turnpike. It is now used for meetings of various denominations.

"There have been several different societies in town, which now have no existence. Among them may be named the old Presbyterian Church which built the meeting house now belonging to the Welsh.

"The Baptist Church of Erieville was organized in 1810, at the house of Nicholas Brown. Meetings were held during the first summer in the school house near Wellington's tavern. The meeting house was built in 1821, at a cost of $2,000, an expensive house for that period.

"The Universalist Church of Erieville was built in 1842, Benjamin Wadsworth, George D. Richardson, Reuel Richardson, George Wells and Nathaniel Davis, building committee and proprietors. The society organized consisted of about sixty members. The first minister was Rev. Charles Shipman.

"The Methodist Episcopal Church of Erieville. - The first class of this Society was formed by Rev. Benjamin Paddock, about 1830, in a school house, nearly two miles west of Erieville. Meetings were held by this society in school houses and dwellings several years. When the school house was built on Main Street, meetings were held regularly there. About 1850 the society was reorganized when the meeting house was built. Moses L. Kern was the pastor in charge at that time. John Crawford was the first settled pastor. This Society belongs to the Nelson Flats charge.

"Rufus Weaver, the pioneer, was born in 1746 and died in 1814. He had a large family who settled around him.  He was from Pownall, Vermont. His son Rufus born May 1, 1793, (in 1872) lived on the old homestead and in first frame house he built, probably the oldest frame house standing in Nelson. *****

"The first town meeting (of the town of Nelson) was held in a barn belonging to Rufus Weaver, located where the State Road intersected with the road from Nelson Flats to Erieville. The barn was of sufficient capacity to hold the assemblage of voters, it being 52 feet long, by about 40 wide, and if not the first, was one of the first frame barns of the town. It is still (1872) a good barn. The first supervisor was John Rice; the first Justice of the Peace, Jedediah Jackson. But three men who were old enough to take part in the town meeting, are now (1872) living in the town; these are Benj. Wadsworth, David Case, and David Card.

In the book entitled "History of Chenango and Madison Counties, New York", published in 1880, author James H. Smith, on page 649, says:

"Churches. - The Erieville Baptist Church. - As early as 1809 there were a number or persons of the Baptist persuasion in the vicinity of Erieville who desired to form themselves into a church and April 26, 1810, a meeting was

At this meeting, which was held at the house of Jesse Braman, one hundred persons subscribed to articles of faith, covenant and practices of the Baptist Church. Jesse Braman was moderator, and B. A. Graham, clerk of the meeting. It was unanimously resolved, "That the cause of God in the south part of the town of Nelson demands that a church be at once organized" and "that this body be so organized, and be hereafter known as the Second Baptist Church in Nelson." (The Church first appears in the Association Minutes as the Erieville Church in 1848, having previously been denominated the Second (Baptist) Church in Nelson.) October 27, 1810, a council composed of Rev. Ashbel Hosmer, of Hamilton, Rev. Roswell Beckwith, of the First Church in Nelson, Rev. John Peck, of Cazenovia, and Rev. Joseph Cooley, of Eaton, of which A. Hosmer was moderator, and R. Corley, clerk, convened and recognized twenty-three persons - eight males and fifteen females - as a church in full fellowship.

"Sept. 10, 1810, the church held its first covenant meeting at the house of Jesse Brayman. Andrew Graham was then chosen clerk, and Joshua Wells and James Brown, deacons. It was resolved to hold covenant meetings upon the Saturday before the second Sunday of each month, a regulation the church has observed to the present time".

Also on page 675, author James H. Smith, above, says:

"The Baptist Church of Cazenovia. Rev. John C. Ward, of Frankfort, became the pastor in December, 1868, and sustained that relation till the close of March, 1873. For a year following the pulpit was supplied. Feb. 21, 1874, a call was given Samuel H. Greene, who was then pursuing theological studies, and at the time supplying the pulpit. This was accepted with the proviso that he be considered a permanent supply instead of pastor. He was ordained June 24, 1875. He is the present pastor.

"The membership of the church June 5, 1879, was 321.

"Their church edifice was burned in 1871, but regular appointments were maintained in an adjoining hall. The society rebuilt with brick at a cost of $15,200, and in June, 1880, reported the new edifice paid for and dedicated.."

(Note: Rev. Samuel H. Greene, referred to above, on the first Sunday of December, 1879, preached his first sermon as pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Fifth and H Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C., which pastorate continued until his death in September, 1920, more than forty years.)

There follows an extract of deed of the Westcott (or Pleasant Valley) Cemetery, in the Town of Nelson, Madison County, N. The present volume is a collection of the most interesting and valuable documents which have been discovered in the course of the excavations at the site of the ancient city of Nineveh. It contains a large number of cuneiform tablets, which are of great importance for the history of the ancient world. The tablets are arranged in chronological order, and each one is accompanied by a translation into English. The volume is illustrated with many fine drawings of the tablets and their inscriptions.
It is a valuable addition to the library of every student of the history of the ancient world.

Norfolk County, Ontario, is one of the counties which touch on its southern side Lake Erie, and its chief lake port is Port Dover; another is Port Ryersee. It was settled shortly after the close of the American Revolution in 1783, by American and English emigrants. On the northern side of the county is located the Township of Townsend, which should not be confused with the Township of Townshend, Windham County, Vermont, which was settled after grant in 1753 to John⁴ Hazelton (No. 29) and others, including several of his sons and sons-in-law. Townsend Township, Ont., is rich agriculturally, being watered by several creeks, and is located in a strip of land about seven miles wide from east to west, stretching from north to south from Galt, Ont., to Port Dover, a distance of about fifty miles, and considered one of the choice farming districts in the southern part of Ontario. Close to the center of the Township of Townsend is the village of Boston, 12 miles north of Port Dover, and about 12 miles south of the city of Brantford in Brant County.

In the year 1804 from the State of New Jersey to Boston, Townsend Township, Ont., came the families of James Corliss and Barzillai Beal, who afterward became prominent in the organization of the Baptist Church in the village of Boston, the first steps towards which were taken Oct. 21, 1804, and formally organized Nov. 9, 1805; their first pastor Elder Peter Fairchild began his services October 21, 1806, and continued until 1820. A descendant of Barzillai Beal, above, married a descendant of John⁴ Hazelton (No. 29).

The family of Barzillai Beal, it is likely made their home at a point about one and one-half miles east of the village of Boston first known as Centreville and afterwards known as Bealton.

The family of Peter Fairchild settled in the Township of Townsend, Ont., about 1794. Other families who became early settlers there were those of John Haviland, George Cunningham, John Johnson (father of Joseph Johnstone, Sr.), Samuel Barber, Jabez Culver, Timothy Culver, Reuben Green, Anthony Dougharty, and the Van Loons.

From the Baptist Church at Boston, Ont., five or six other Baptist Churches sprang up, among them the First Baptist Church, Brantford, Ont., in 1833.

Elizabeth Bishop,

Alonzo Wells m. in Centreville, Norfolk County, Ontario, Feb. 7, 1847, / who was b. in England, April 3, 1830, the daughter of William Bishop and Harriet (-----) Bishop, who, with their family had emigrated from England and settled about 1836 on a 25 acre farm, located about one mile north of Centreville, on the southwest corner of the intersection of the road leading north from Centreville and the concession crossing it at right angles. On this lot they constructed a log cabin which was still standing until about 1885, when it was torn down and replaced by a frame house. The Bishop farm, with the log cabin, was purchased in the fall of 1873 by the widow of James Alexander Robertson, and her family continued to occupy it for many years.

In Centreville, Alonzo Wells was engaged in the making of soap, potash, pearl ash and caustic soda. He owned a house on the road leading north from Centreville, on the south side of a small creek flowing eastward, about one-third mile north of Centreville. About 1865, he removed his business twelve miles north to Brantford, Ontario, taking his oldest daughter Adelia with him to keep house for him, while his wife and the younger children remained in Centreville until 1866, when they also removed to Brantford, the residence being on the south side of Dalhousie Street, between Alfred and Clarence Sts., with the soap factory directly west, the whole area occupying about one-half of the square between Colborne and Dalhousie Streets. apoplexy in Brantford, Sept. 25, 1885; buried in Greenwood Cemetery there. His widow Elizabeth d. in Brantford, Feb. 23, 1915, aged 85 years, buried in Greenwood Cemetery. She lived for a number of years at 48 Alfred Street, and in her last years she lived at the home of her daughter Amelia (Hazelton) Batchelor. Alonzo Wells and his wife were members of the First Baptist Church, Brantford, and later of the East Ward (now Calvary) Baptist Church, Brantford, Ontario.

Elizabeth (Bishop) Hazelton was small of stature, weighing only about one hundred pounds, but very active. She had but a limited education but proved herself a good business woman, and early learned the art of doing everything quickly and well. For many years she kept a boarding house and did all the work herself, and yet found time to read her Bible through from cover to cover each year. She delighted in doing fancy work, and made several so-called "crazy quilts", and gave one each to numerous grandchildren when they married.

Bertha Almira (Tooke) Wood, died in Morrisville, Eaton Township, Madison County, N. Y., June 16, 1938.

Herbert Cutler Wood was in the insurance business, and in 1947 to 1950, was Clerk of the village of Morrisville, N. Y. (and perhaps for prior years,) banker affiliated with the Morrisville National Bank, which he served continuously since January 1, 1901, several years as Vice President and 25 years or more as President. Prior to 1948 he lost the sight of one eye necessitating its removal; in 1950 with the other eye was able to read with a magnifying glass only with great difficulty; he had therefore disposed of his insurance business, also his banking interests from necessity; his term as village clerk expired on April 1st, 1950, after which he will not act in that capacity. In 1950 he was living on Union Street, Morrisville, the old home of his great-grandfather Isaac Mason, which was left to Herbert Cutler Wood by his Aunt Asenath Wood Tillinghast, his father's only sister.

William¹⁰ Henry Porter Yule, b. Brantford, Ont., July 1, 1876; his Christian names the full name of the pastor of the First Baptist Church, Brantford, Ont., the Rev. William Henry Porter; m. at 33 Hamilton Street, Buffalo, N. Y., by the Rev. Isaac C. Taylor, pastor of Dearborn St. Baptist Church, Buffalo, N. Y., June 20, 1901, Blanche Bigelow, who was b. Sardinia, N. Y., May 25, 1878, the daughter of Cyrus Edwin Bigelow and Ann Eliza John. William was educated in the Central School, Brantford, with his parents removed to Buffalo, N. Y., December, 1894; removed in 1897 to Albany, N. Y., thence to Bath-on-Hudson, and Rensselaer, thence to Schenectady, N. Y., in 1900; in the last three places he was agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., until promoted in 1901, to Asst. Supt. and assigned to Amsterdam, N. Y., under the Schenectady District; subsequently he was a co-owner of a laundry in Schenectady, where he continued to reside until 1905, when he removed his family to Brantford, Ont., and was employed in the shipping dept. of Cockshutt Plow Company. In the fall of 1909, he journeyed by train to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, where he hired a horse and buggy and spent about six weeks in looking over farm lands, finally buying a war veteran's right (soldier scrip) to one half section (320 acres) near Elstow, Sask., which required homesteading for three years before full title could be secured, of which six months of each year must be on the farm. Then he returned to Brantford for the winter months, and in the Spring of 1910, moved his family to Elstow, Sask., remaining there until the fall of 1910, when he and his family returned to Brantford, staying there until the Spring of 1911, when the family again went to Elstow where they remained for several years. In 1918 another farm was purchased at Colonsay, Sask., to which the family removed and stayed on it until 1923, when William sold the farm at Colonsay, and purchased a house at 1912 Franklin Ave., Saskatoon, Sask., removing his family therein order that his daughter Blanche E. might have the advantage of attending the normal school there. In 1925, another home was bought at 808-14th Street, East, Saskatoon, the family moving to it. Entering Saskatoon William took an agency with the Ontario Equitable Life Insurance Company which continued until his death in the mental hospital at North Battleford, Sask., April 20, 1945, to which he was committed in July, 1944, after several years suffering from epilepsy. He was buried in Saskatoon April 23, 1945.

His wife, Blanch Bigelow, removed from her birth-place in Sardinia, N.Y., to Buffalo, N. Y., about 1896, where she was employed as a stenographer until marriage in 1901.

In Brantford he carried newspapers for the Brantford Expositor, (1890-2), worked for Mrs. Mellish, stationer, 1892-3; in Buffalo, N. Y., employed by the Bradstreet Company (commercial rating company) 1895-6; timekeeper and inspector under F. H. Galusha, foreman, McKinnon Dash and Hardware Co., 1896-7; in Albany, N. Y., cashier in office of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., under superintendencies of Henry Brockbank, Alfred J. Bantin, and Peter M. Leiffer, 1898-1901; and after an attack of typhoid fever, which nearly cost him his life, transferred to the cashiership in the Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., under Supt. William G. Staniland, April to Sept. 1901; then accepted a position as timekeeper and cost accountant under F. H. Galusha, under whom he had previously worked, now Supt. of the carriage trimming dept. of H. Scherer & Co., 280 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich., 1901-4.

After passing a Civil Service examination he was appointed a bookkeeper in July, 1904, in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Treasury Dept., Washington, D. C., 1904-6, later transferring to the Office of the Auditor for the State and Other Departments, Treasury Dept., 1906-1919, resigning to accept a position as Bursar (disbursing officer and accountant) of the National Academy of Sciences and of its affiliate The National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C. Here he remained until June 30, 1944, when at his request he retired with a life pension after 25 years service.

In March, 1902, Herbert and his brother William, were baptized into the membership of the First Baptist Church, Brantford, Ont., together with his Uncle Charles H. Hazelton, all on the same evening by the Rev. T. L. Johnson, pastor. Herbert successively moved his church membership to other Baptist churches where he was living at the time, as follows: Dearborn St. Baptist, Buffalo, N. Y., Calvary Baptist, Albany, N. Y., Grand River Avenue Baptist, Detroit, Mich., Calvary Baptist, Washington, D. C. (1904-1937), Chevy Chase Baptist, Washington, D. C., 1937-50. He has held some office in every church or affiliated organization of which he has been a member.

He was married at the home of the bride's parents, 3451 Holmead Place, N. W., Washington, D. C., by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Greene, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Oct. 21, 1908, to Helen Bruce Gillman, who was b. in Baltimore, Md., March 9, 1875, the daughter of Howard Malcolm Gillman, Sr., and Emily Elizabeth Magne. Helen had been a teacher in a private school, a clerk in a fire insurance office and in a bank. She was baptized into the membership of Calvary Baptist Church, in 1894, and her membership in that church was continuous thereafter until her death Dec. 30, 1931. She had served as teacher in the Sunday School, also as secretary of the beginners dept., and for four terms of one year each she was president of the Evening Mission Society. She was buried in Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

Herbert married 2nd at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sweatt, Putnam Station, Washington County, N. Y., by the Rev. James S. Vance, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, July 15, 1933, Marjorie Grace Meiklejohn, who was b. in Town of Putnam, Washington County, N. Y., Aug. 5, 1882, the daughter of Andrew Gordon Meiklejohn and Anna Amelia Wilson. She spent the first sixteen years of her life on the home farm, attending a one-room rural school. Her parents moved in 1898, to Plattsburgh, N. Y., in order to give their daughters, Elizabeth A. and Marjorie G. an education; Marjorie attended Plattsburgh High School one year 1898-9, then entered Plattsburgh Normal School from which she was graduated in 1902; her first teaching position was fifth and sixth grades in Berlin, Rensselaer County, N. Y.; she stayed there three years, 1902-5, then taught one year, 1905-6, in the 4th grade, Sayville, Long Island, N. Y.; then returned to the same Berlin position for another four years, 1906-10. From Berlin she went to Ticonderoga, N. Y., where her sister Elizabeth was teaching, and taught three years under the Ticonderoga village system, 1910-13, the first two of which were in a one-room branch school two and a half miles out of the village to which she used to walk from the home established by her mother, her father having died in 1906, and her last year, 1912-13, was 7th grade in the village school. She quit grade school teaching in 1913, and began training school teaching in Morris, N. Y., a place which she reached after leaving the train in Oneonta, N. Y., by a twenty mile stage coach ride. Her mother kept house for her that year. After one year of experience in training class work, she accepted a position as training class teacher in Troy Conference Academy (now Green Mountain Junior College), in Poultney, Rutland County, Vermont, remaining seven years, 1914-21. Her first year there she lived in the dormitory, after that in the home established by her mother in the Harold Scott house, Poultney. For fifteen years she was District Supt. of Schools in District No. 1 of Washington County, N. Y., her home locality, with headquarters at Whitehall, N. Y., 1921-1936. She then lived with her mother, mother, uncle and aunt on Main St. (now Broadway), Whitehall, till all three of the older people died. Then she started her own home alone at 16 Boardman St., Whitehall, where she remained until 1937 when she came to Washington, D.C., to live permanently. Her last year (1936-7) was in a rural school Westfield, Town of Fort Ann, N. Y. This completed 35 years of teaching work which entitled her to retire on a pension which was granted.

Her education beyond Plattsburgh Normal School consisted of one summer in 1912 in Mechanic Institute, Rochester, N. Y., four summers-1914, 1915, 1916 and 1920, at Columbia University, New York, and four summer courses at Cornell University, Ithaca. During her summers at Columbia she leased an apartment on Morningside Drive and sub-leased rooms.

She had church membership successively in the following churches: United Presbyterian in Putnam; Presbyterian, in Plattsburgh; Methodist in Berlin; Congregational in Ticonderoga; Methodist in Poultney; Methodist and Presbyterian in Whitehall; in most of these churches she taught a Sunday School Class; in 1937 she was baptized into the membership of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, Washington, D. C.

No issue from either marriage.

The first part of the report is devoted to a general description of the project and the objectives of the study. It is followed by a detailed account of the methodology used in the research, including the selection of the sample and the procedures for data collection and analysis.

The results of the study are presented in a series of tables and figures, which are accompanied by a detailed discussion of their significance. The findings indicate that there is a significant relationship between the variables studied, and that the results are consistent with the hypotheses of the study. The discussion also highlights the limitations of the study and suggests areas for further research.

In conclusion, the study has provided valuable insights into the relationship between the variables studied, and the results are consistent with the hypotheses of the study. The findings have important implications for the field of research, and the study has contributed to the understanding of the phenomenon under investigation.

The study was conducted in accordance with the ethical standards of the research community, and the results are presented in a clear and concise manner. The study has been reviewed and approved by the appropriate ethical committees, and the findings are presented in a way that is accessible to a wide range of readers.

Rose¹⁰ Elizabeth Yule, b. 48 Alfred Street, Brantford, Ontario, June 30, 1883, received her education, starting in the first kindergarten class, in the Central School, Brantford, and in the public schools of Buffalo, Albany, Bath-on-Hudson, all in New York State. In November, 1900 she completed the full stenographic course in the Brantford Business College, Brantford, Ont.; about November, 1883, her parents purchased a house at 46 Alfred Street, Brantford and moved there, remaining until Dec. 25, 1894, moving then to 7 Rano St., Buffalo, N. Y., thence in March, 1895, to 137 Military Road, Buffalo, N. Y.; thence on October 6, 1896, to 357 Central Avenue, Albany, N. Y.; thence about 1899, to 16 Third St., Bath-on-Hudson, N. Y., thence about 1900 one block distant to Third St., Rensselaer, N. Y.; and in March, 1901 to 158 Thompson St., Buffalo, N. Y., moved again in 1902 to 1005 Tonawanda St., Buffalo, and from there in Dec. 1902, to 863 Vermont Ave., Detroit, Mich. Another move was made in Oct. 1906, to 2247 Antoniette St., Detroit, where they resided until Nov. 1908, to 605 Kenyon St., N.W., Washington, D. C., and later to 611 Kenyon St., N.W., same city.

In Buffalo 1901-2, she was employed by Mrs. John Gunston, a milliner, and in 1904 she was secretary to the chairman of the entertainment committee of the Detroit Baptist Young People's Union preparing for the entertainment of delegates to the national B.Y.P.U. Convention in July, 1904. Her mother Adelia Hazelton Yule was an invalid for many years, and much of Rose's time was given to the care of her mother. In 1908, Rose accepted a position in the office of the W. H. West Company, Bond Building, Washington, D.C., fire insurance agents. In January, 1909, she became associated with Miss Louise Taylor in the Franklin National Bank Bldg., in the wholesale of flour. From said building she, accompanied by her brother Herbert and his wife Helen, watched the inaugural procession of William Howard Taft on March 4, 1909, which occurred after a very heavy downfall of snow in the early morning hours. The snow storm, a local one, was so bad that the naval cadets from Annapolis, Md., forty miles away, were not able to get to Washington although plans had been made to have them present for the inaugural. The army cadets from West Point, N.Y., who had started and arrived before the storm, participated in the inaugural parade. In Aug. 1909, she accepted a position with the Brantford Automatic Telephone Company, Brantford, Ont., retaining it until Aug. 1910, when she resigned to care for her mother and her sister Fay, the latter having been stricken with Bright's diseases and died in Brantford Dec. 6, 1910 in Brantford. Her mother passed away January 5, 1920, after a stroke and paralysis. Both Fay and her mother were buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Brantford, Ont.

Early in the year 1920, Rose became Asst. Treasurer of Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, D. C., on a half-time basis, the other half being given to household duties and the making of a home for her father, the two living successively at various locations, viz: 742 Eighth St., N.W., 602 F Street, N.W., 459 H Street, N.W., all in Washington, D. C.; Falls Church; Virginia Highlands; and finally at 302 Poplar Street, Clarendon, (Arlington County), all in the State of Virginia, where her father died April 1, 1924; buried in Brantford, Ont., April 3, 1924. Rose retained the Asst. Treasurership of Calvary Baptist Church until Oct. 1921, when her brother resigned as treasurer after nearly four years. Subsequently she was engaged in the sale of Viavi, and in the fall of 1924, she went to Lansing, Mich., where she was employed by the Owosso Beet Sugar Company. She married in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Kyes, 1122 Seymour Ave., Lansing, Mich., by the Rev. F. D. Hague pastor of the Haslett Baptist Church, Haslett, Mich., April 29, 1925, Edward Henry Retzlaff, who was b. at Okemos, Ingham County, Mich., the son of Jakob Retzlaff, (who was b. July 5, 1849, near Gumbia, Poland,) and Marie Schroeder (who was b. Dec. 3, 1852, near Gumbin, Poland; they were married July 26, 1875, at Gumbin, Poland. Marie d. at Haslett, Mich., Aug. 6, 1931; Jakob d. at Haslett, Mich., Feb. 16, 1938; both buried in Evergreen Cemetery, Okemos, Mich.

On Easter Sunday in April, 1895, Rose and her sister Fay were baptized into the membership of the Dearborn Street Baptist Church, by the Rev. J. S. Cleveland, pastor, subsequently their membership was transferred to the following Baptist Churches: Calvary Baptist, Albany, N. Y.; again to Dearborn Street Baptist, Buffalo, N. Y.; Grand River Avenue Baptist, Detroit, Mich.; Calvary Baptist, Washington, D. C.; and Park Baptist, Brantford, Ont. In all of these churches they were both active until the death of Fay in 1910; and Rose continued her membership there until 1920, and after her mother's death she transferred her membership again to Calvary Baptist, Washington, D. C., and in 1925 transferred to Haslett Baptist, Haslett, Mich.

Rose and her husband spent the winters of 1925-6 and 1926-7 in Florida, then returned to Lansing, Mich., and built a house at 1006 Pennsylvania Ave., that city, and upon its completion in 1927 moved into it, and continued to occupy it until Oct. 1930, when they returned to his father's farm at Haslett, Mich., where they remained until Sept. 30, 1946, when the farm was sold, together with most of their furniture. The winter of 1945-46 was spent at Pharr, Texas; and the winters of 1946-47 and 1948-1949 were spent in Urbana, Ill., and Champaign, Ill., respectively. In the spring of 1949, they purchased a partially completed house at 1758 Lake Lansing Road, near Haslett, Mich., which they occupied and proceeded to finish in the succeeding months.

Fay¹⁰ Adelia Yule, b. 46 Alfred Street, Brantford, Ont., Aug. 12, 1887; her places of residence were much the same as related above for Rose Elizabeth Yule down to 1909, when Rose went to Brantford, Fay remained in Washington until May, 1910, then removed to 46 Alfred Street, Brantford, where she remained until her death December 6, 1910. She received her schooling in Brantford Central School, Brantford, Ont.; No. 42, Buffalo, N. Y.; No. 21, Albany, N. Y.; Bath-on-Hudson, N. Y.; Rensselaer, N. Y.; No. 51, Buffalo, N. Y.; East Ward School (now Darling St. School) Brantford; Sept. 1901 to June, 1902, in Buffalo, N. Y., Ontario Street School; Detroit, Mich., where she did finish grade school, and had work for a short time in three or four places, working the longest time at American Harrow Co., Detroit, Mich., as a file clerk. Her education was severely handicapped by the removal of her family from city to city on numerous occasions. Each different city would have its own-text books and methods of grading and such removals for Fay often meant the loss of a grade obtained in the previous school. She was bright and vivacious, and a good student.

She had a natural ear for music, and while she had no professional training, she did learn to play the piano well and never hesitated to play church hymns when requested, as she frequently was. She was an earnest and devout Christian, having been baptized into the membership of the Dearborn St. Baptist Church, Buffalo, N. Y., when she was eight years old; she continued as a consecrated worker until her demise.

At the same time, the Commission has been asked to consider the possibility of a more comprehensive approach to the problem of the environment. This would involve a more integrated approach to the various aspects of the environment, such as air, water, and land. The Commission is currently studying this possibility and will report on its findings in the near future.

The Commission is also aware of the need for a more coordinated approach to the management of the environment. This would involve a more integrated approach to the various aspects of the environment, such as air, water, and land. Josie Grace¹⁰ Hazelton, b. Woodstock, Oxford County, Ont., July 18, 1879; m. Lansing, Mich., by the Rev. E. M. Lake, pastor First Baptist Church, Feb. 27, 1904, Augustus Caesar Carton, who was b. in Flushing, Mich., 1871, the son of John Carton and Ann Carton; they were born in Ireland. Josie Grace was educated in the public schools of Brantford, Ont., and Lansing, Mich., and was a graduate of the Lansing High School. In March 1950 she was living at 916 West Ottawa Street, Lansing.

Augustus Caesar Carton d. at his home as above, Lansing, February 3, 1946, at the age of 75; interment was in Mt. Hope Cemetery. He was a veteran state official who started his long career of public service as a senate messenger in 1885. He had been a resident of Lansing since 1889. Born on a farm in Genesee County, Mr. Carton took an interest in governmental affairs at an early age and devoted his entire life to various departments of the state of Michigan. He was elected to the state senate from the 28th district in 1905 while a resident of East Tawas, and at the time of his death was serving as chairman of the Great Lakes tidewater commission, secretary of the state farm board and as a member of the Michigan historical commission. In January 1946 he retired from his position as director of state fairs but retained his post as secretary of the County Fair Commission. He had been connected with the state department of agriculture since 1922, having served as assistant commissioner, deputy commissioner and as director of the bureau of agriculture.

Mr. Carton was the last state land commissioner. Because of his wide knowledge and experience in the fields of government in which he devoted his life, he was called upon continually to speak before various groups throughout the state.

It was recalled by old-timers at the capitol that Mr. Carton urged the state to purchase its first typewriter many years ago.

All the offices of the department of agriculture were closed on Tuesday February 5, 1946 in the afternoon between the hours of 1 and 3 o'clock to permit employees to attend the funeral services, which were held in the Colonial chapel, Estes Leadley funeral home, with Clare Harrington of the Christian Science church officiating.

Children (surname Carton):

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$.

2. In the second part we shall consider the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

3. THE CASE WHEN THE PARAMETERS $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ ARE NOT ARBITRARY BUT SATISFY CERTAIN CONDITIONS.

3.1. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

3.2. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

3.3. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

3.4. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

3.5. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

3.6. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

4. THE CASE WHEN THE PARAMETERS $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ ARE NOT ARBITRARY BUT SATISFY CERTAIN CONDITIONS.

4.1. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

4.2. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

5.1. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

5.2. Let us suppose that the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega$ are not arbitrary but satisfy the conditions

CHAPTER I

THE first object of this work is to show that the principles of geometry are not self-evident, but are derived from experience. (1)

It is often said that geometry is a science of pure reason, and that its principles are self-evident. But this is a mistake. Geometry is a science of experience, and its principles are derived from observation. (2)

For example, the principle that two straight lines cannot enclose a space is not self-evident, but is derived from experience. We observe that two straight lines, if extended far enough, will never meet. (3)

Similarly, the principle that the angles of a triangle are equal to two right angles is not self-evident, but is derived from experience. We observe that the angles of a triangle, if extended far enough, will form a straight line. (4)

Thus, geometry is a science of experience, and its principles are derived from observation. It is not a science of pure reason, and its principles are not self-evident. (5)

CHAPTER II

OF THE NATURE OF MATHEMATICS. Mathematics is a science of quantity, and its principles are derived from experience. (6)

It is often said that mathematics is a science of pure reason, and that its principles are self-evident. But this is a mistake. Mathematics is a science of experience, and its principles are derived from observation. (7)

CHAPTER III

OF THE NATURE OF ARITHMETIC. Arithmetic is a science of quantity, and its principles are derived from experience. (11)

It is often said that arithmetic is a science of pure reason, and that its principles are self-evident. But this is a mistake. Arithmetic is a science of experience, and its principles are derived from observation. (12)

For example, the principle that the sum of two numbers is greater than either of the numbers is not self-evident, but is derived from experience. We observe that the sum of two numbers is always greater than either of the numbers. (13)

Thus, arithmetic is a science of experience, and its principles are derived from observation. It is not a science of pure reason, and its principles are not self-evident. (14)

Similarly, the principle that the product of two numbers is greater than either of the numbers is not self-evident, but is derived from experience. We observe that the product of two numbers is always greater than either of the numbers. (15)

Thus, arithmetic is a science of experience, and its principles are derived from observation. It is not a science of pure reason, and its principles are not self-evident. (16)

This was a new settlement and no school had been built. A school was built in 1913, and named Sleaford. Owing to weather conditions and lack of good roads, the school year lasted from April 1st until Nov. 1st. In 1918, the family moved to a farm on the edge of Elstow where Blanche took grades 7, 8, 9 and 10; then out of school a year; and then went to Saskatoon, Sask., for grade 11 and the first half of the normal course which lasted from September until December. She taught for a year and a half before finishing the normal course from January until April. From then until June 1934 she taught in various country points in Saskatchewan. She taught at Elstow 1923

Luseland 1927-1928
 Keppel 1928-1930
 Carruthers 1920-1934.

She married North Battleford, Sask., by the Rev. McCutcheon, January 3, 1934, George William Bozak, who was b. at Nowasalica (Post Office Roznow - nearest railroad station Zablotiw), Province of Galicia, Austria - (now Ukraine), Nov. 22, 1898; his parents lived on a small farm, and George was sent to school for a few years and then went to work in the mines for one year. His father came to Canada in 1908 and worked in the coal mines near Estevan, Sask. It was planned that the father would send for the family one by one. George was the first to come in 1913 and came by himself. He worked with his father in the mines. After being in Canada only a few months his father took sick and was told he had only a few months to live so he decided to go back to Austria and left George in Canada. The father lived two weeks after he reached home. George got a job with a construction company on the railroad. Here he met a man by the name of Robert Creelman who asked George to go and stay the winter with them, and although they had five small children he was welcome. He tried to help them as much as possible and during the winters was sent to school as he could not speak English. From then on George considered the Creelmans as his foster parents. The Creelmans lived in Souris, Manitoba, and George made his home with them for four years. In 1917 he joined the Canadian Army, spending a portion of the time in Winnipeg, Man., and the balance in England. In 1919 he came back to Canada and as the Creelmans had moved to Carruthers, Sask., George went there. He worked at any job that he could find. It might be stated here that really the only help he had in learning the art of cooking was from Mrs. Creelman. He has never had a course of any kind in it, and yet he is considered an excellent cook, particularly in pastries and meat.

After his marriage to Blanche Elizabeth Yule she taught school until the end of June, 1934, while George worked on a farm. They bought a store business in Carruthers, Sask., and stayed there until October, 1937. George started to work with W. C. Wells Construction Company in June, 1937, and was sent as cook to Fort Resolution, North West Territories for four months. They moved to Vancouver, B. C., in Oct. 1937 and bought another store business, and sold it in 1938. By this time George had gone to Goldfields, Sask., to work again for W. C. Wells, so the family returned to Saskatoon, Sask. George worked at various places for W. C. Wells, usually spending a few months at each job. Building airports and roads were some of their jobs and the home was made in Saskatoon. In 1947, the Wells Construction Company received the contract for building a dirt-fill dam at Spring Coulee, Alberta, and the family moved there.
